

CHAPTER 4 NOW, WHAT?

Since we have already witnessed the curtail of numerous conducted activities within the module the notion will be stretch out from my comfort zone and make out some interactions at least with some of the batchmates and make progress on it and further to corporate people by pulling the thread and participating in events like conferences, paper/ project presentations to share my thoughts and listen to other views/ directions.

Another paramount point to embrace my skills and strengthen my grip on them so, that I can present them better when required as well as working on social projects and have some conversations with people from social media just to know more about their culture, ideologies, and mindsets. A good start could be from learning Irish language as being in Ireland will eventually help me to understand them better.

The activity sessions will be replicated in the industries – a couple a month from now - where we will need to know our team members and aim for a common output as well as having a circle of people from different background and spend time recognizing the individual stands.

And coming to the action plan, it will help to build me with technical and social skills, participate in social welfare events as well as provide teaching to whosoever possible from the experience and mistakes.

Grip on the ground
Aim for the sky
Extent your boundaries
Fly to the sky

Be Devoted
Be focused
Be Cheerful
Be Excited

I know
It's tough
But still just a phase
You can do it
You will do it
Because
There's something big
Coming up
Just for you
Just like you

YOU will rise
And walls will fall
So, NEVER EVER GIVE UP
